

Catalina Pieri

Catalina Pieri is a digital illustrator living and working in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Her work features a range of expressive hand drawn illustration, digital illustration, and animations. With her quirky and fantastical imagery she applies symbolic meaning through her unorthodox characters along with their environments to tell stories about emotional turmoil, identity, and human desires.

Always the introverted and spacey girl in the crowd she uses art as a form of self expression, emotional release, and a way to connect with people around her. Inspired by her memories, dreams, emotions, and daily experiences she enjoys re-imagining the mundane into absurd images with a humorous touch that transport the viewer into another world.

Catalina currently works as a freelance illustrator on projects such as private portraits and murals. She has also been commissioned and collaborated with a variety of clients creating original artwork for promotional print, merchandise, and packaging. With a cheerful disposition and passion for art she enjoys creating amazing designs her clients will love.
